Just got the newsletter a few minutes ago but can't help but credit you immediately on a job magnificently done. Can't expect anything but the best from you, can we? I really enjoyed it, so much, that it actually brought tears to my eyes, especially seeing my mom's picture of when she was young.

You did a TERRIFIC job with the Laico Lines for this year. We realize how much time and talent went into it. Aren't you glad it's just once a year? It's encouraging how many younger Laico families sent in an article. It took me a few days to read all the news in it. I had to read a little at a time, due to being too busy, and also because it made me feel happy, something to look forward to, so I didn't want to finish it right away (just like when you enjoy a food full of cholesterol and want it to last forever).

I'm going to send good recommendations for you all when you apply at the National Enquirer or some professional tabloids. The Laico Lines were really something this year! Just wanted to let you know how much we enjoyed it and how much the layout and style made it so much more humorous and interesting. The eye-catching titles got me intrigued and made me want to read even the humdrum reports. Thanks for a super job! I think this paper really helps keep the family closer.

WOW! That's all I could say right now about the fabulous work you've done on the Laico Lines. I did not know how you could top the excellent work that your brother Ricky had done in the three previous issues. But I think this is the best one yet! I hope you realize how invaluable these newsletters are to the entire family, how they will remain in our family memoirs for generations, how posterity will look back at these precious newsletters and appreciate their history and how you've helped keep the family closer to each other despite the physical boundaries of distance. Thank you.

Oops! Sorry! Only today did I realize that I had missed the deadline for the LAICO LINES! Although we're a distant side-branch of the Los Baños clan, we do enjoy reading the Lines whenever we can get our hands on a copy ( usually through the thoughtfulness of Arthur David).

Well, maybe next time, huh? Til then, keep up the great work.

Best wishes and aloha.

Laico Found Wandering in the South

One Laico member was found, apparently trying to find the way to the reunion. The lost Laico had heard about it but was not sure how to get there. But fortunately, the person was tracked down and will be the surprise guest at the reunion. Be there to welcome her or him!!!

Wanted: Editor

After two years of serving as editor for Laico Lines, Cristina Ford is (regretfully) calling it quits. The new prospective editor must have a good, dependable computer and a reliable connection to email service. Fluency in the use of word-processing applications and a basic knowledge of English grammar are required. A good imagination and sense of humor are a plus, as well as the flexibility in your schedule to set aside evenings for about two weeks in November to work on the newsletter. For compensation and other info, contact Tita Mitos, verdevilla@worldnet.att.net.
